

Evolutions around Way of Nature UK

A little note and news from Andres

Hello dear friends,

This is a short note to mark a moment of transition, and to share that I am stepping back from Way of Nature UK.

It's amazing to say that Adrian and I, with John's blessing, set up Way of Nature UK eight years ago. There have been so many amazing moments in that time.... So many adventures, so many beautiful stories around fires, and so many lessons in how to be human and live as part of nature. Now it feels right to approach our work in different ways.

Happily, Way of Nature UK is not going anywhere, and I'm not going to stop guiding journeys in nature. Rather, the plan is for Adrian to keep leading Way of Nature UK, inviting others to join him, while I focus my work more on supporting just and sustainable transitions.

What we do with the Way of Nature is so important to the world. We have so much work to do to help humanity reconnect with nature. I feel that one way I can help do this better is through a platform that more explicitly bridges nature, consciousness and social/sustainable change. I'd love to give this fresh thought and energy.

It's too early to say how this will look, but I imagine the work will be a bridge across Way of Nature and Bio-Leadership. I will certainly connect with Adrian, John and the Way of Nature community to ensure we do it with reciprocity and mutual support.

For those of you that spent time with us on programmes, you know Adrian and I have a bond as fellow adventurers for life. And still, I send extra gratitude, love and respect to my Way of Nature brother.

More than anything, I want to say thank you to all the people who have travelled with us over the past eight years. As we say in our programmes, when we share a story, we help each other grow. Boy, how I have grown doing this work. Thank you again, and here is to deepening care and connection together, and to protecting our beautiful Earth.

Great hugs and see you down the forest trail,

Andres

PS - I'll still be contactable through my Way of Nature UK address for a few more months, but to find out more about wider projects check out bio-leadership.org or please contact me at andres@bio-leadership.org.
